THE INTERNAL REVENUE ACT.

[OFFICIAL.]

Laws of the United States.

Passed at the Second Session of the Thirty-seventh Congress.

[PUBLIC ACT—No. 97.]

Sec. 51. And be it further enacted, That every person who on said first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, shall be the owner or occupant of any brewery or premises used or intended to be used for the purpose of brewing or making such fermented liquors, or who shall have such premises under his control or superintendence as agent for the owner or occupant, or shall have in his possession or custody any vessel or vessels intended to be used on said premises in the manufacture of beer, lager beer, ale, porter, or other similar fermented liquors, either as owner, agent, or otherwise, shall from day to day enter or cause to be entered in a book to be kept by him for that purpose, and which shall be open at all times, except Sundays, between the rising and setting of the sun, for the inspection of said collector, who may take any minutes or memorandums or transcripts thereof, the quantities of grain or other vegetable productions or other substances put into the mash tub or otherwise used for the purpose of producing beer, or for any other purpose, and the quantity or number of barrels and fractional parts of barrels of fermented liquors made and sold, or removed for consumption or sale, keeping separate account of the several kinds and descriptions; and shall render to said collector, on the first day of each month in each year, or within ten days thereafter, a general account, in writing, taken from his books, of the quantities of grain, or other vegetable productions or other substances, put into the mash tub, or otherwise used for the purpose of producing beer, or for any other purpose, and the quantity or number of barrels and fractional parts of barrels of each kind of fermented liquors made and sold or removed for consumption or sale, for one month preceding said day; and shall verify, or cause to be verified, the said entries, reports, books, and general accounts, on oath or affirmation, to be taken before the collector or some officer authorized by the laws of the State to administer the same, according to the form required by this act where the same is prescribed; and shall also pay to the said collector the duties which, by this act, ought to be paid on the liquor made and sold, or removed for consumption or sale, and in the said accounts mentioned, at the time of rendering the account thereof as aforesaid. But where the manufacturer of any beer, lager beer, or ale, manufactures the same in one collection district, and owns or hires a depot or warehouse for the storage and sale of such beer, lager beer, or ale in another collection district, he may, instead of paying to the collector of the district where the same was manufactured, the duties chargeable thereon, present to such collector or his deputy an invoice of the quantity or number of barrels about to be removed for the purpose of storage and sale, specifying in such invoice, with reasonable certainty, the depot or warehouse in which he intends to place such beer, lager beer, or ale; and thereupon such collector or deputy shall endorse on such invoice his permission for such removal, and shall at the same time transmit to the collector of the district in which such depot or warehouse is situated a duplicate of such invoice, and thereafter the manufacturer of the beer, lager beer, or ale so removed shall render the same account, and pay the same duties, and be subject to the same liabilities and penalties as if the beer, lager beer, or ale so removed had been manufactured in the district. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue may prescribe such rules as he may deem necessary for the purpose of carrying the provisions of this section into effect.

Sec. 52. And be it further enacted, That the entries made in the books required to be kept by the foregoing section shall, on said first day of each and every month, or within ten days thereafter, be verified by the oath or affirmation, to be taken as aforesaid, of the person or persons by whom such entries shall have been made, which oath or affirmation shall be certified at the end of such entries by the collector or officer administering the same, and shall be, in substance, as follows:

"I do swear (or affirm) that the foregoing entries were made by me on the respective days specified, and that they state, according to the best of my knowledge and belief, the whole quantity of fermented liquors either brewed or brewed and sold at the brewery owned by [illegible] in the county of [illegible], amounting to [illegible] barrels."

Sec. 53. And be it further enacted, That the owner, agent, or superintendent aforesaid shall, in case the original entries required to be made in his books shall not have been made by himself, subjoin to the oath or affirmation the following oath or affirmation, to be taken as aforesaid:

"I do swear (or affirm) that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, the foregoing entries are just and true, and that I have taken all the means in my power to make them so."

Sec. 54. And be it further enacted, That the owner, agent, or superintendent of any vessel or vessels used in making fermented liquors, or of any still, boiler, or other vessel used in the distillation of spirits on which duty is payable, who shall neglect or refuse to make true and exact entry and report of the same, or to do, or cause to be done, any of the things by this act required to be done as aforesaid, shall forfeit for every such neglect or refusal all the liquors and spirits made by or for him, and all the vessels used in making the same, and the stills, boilers and other vessels used in distillation, together with the sum of five hundred dollars, to be recovered with costs of suit, which said liquors or spirits, with the vessels containing the same, with all the vessels used in making the same, may be seized by any collector of internal duties, and held by him until a decision shall be had thereon according to law: Provided, That such seizure be made within thirty days after the cause for the same may have occurred, and that proceedings to enforce said forfeiture shall have been commenced by such collector within twenty days after the seizure thereof. And the proceedings to enforce said forfeiture of said property shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem in the circuit or district court of the United States for the district where such seizure is made, or in any other court of competent jurisdiction.

Sec. 55. And be it further enacted, That in all cases in which the duties aforesaid, payable on spirituous liquors distilled and sold, or removed for consumption or sale, or beer, lager beer, ale, porter, and other similar fermented liquors, shall not be paid at the time of rendering the account of the same, as herein required, the person or persons chargeable therewith shall pay, in addition, ten per centum on the amount thereof; and until such duties, with such addition, shall be paid, they shall be and remain a lien upon the distillery where such liquors have been distilled, or the brewery where such liquors have been brewed, and upon the stills, boilers, vats, and all other implements thereto belonging, until the same shall have been paid; and in case of refusal or neglect to pay said duties, with the addition, within ten days after the same shall have become payable, the amount thereof may be recovered by distraint and sale of the goods, chattels, and effects of the delinquent; and in case of such distraint, it shall be the duty of the officer charged with the collection to make, or cause to be made, an account of the goods, chattels, or effects which may be distrained, a copy of which, signed by the officer making such distraint, shall be left with the owner or possessor of such goods, chattels, or effects, at his, her, or their dwelling, with a note of the sum demanded, and the time and place of sale; and said officer shall forthwith cause a notification to be published in some newspaper, if any there be, within the county, and publicly posted up at the post office nearest to the residence of the person whose property shall be distrained, or at the court house of the same county, if not more than ten miles distant, which notice shall specify the articles distrained, and the time and place proposed for the sale thereof, which time shall not be less than ten days from the date of such notification, and the place proposed for sale not more than five miles distant from the place of making such distraint: Provided, That in every case of distraint for the payment of the duties aforesaid, the goods, chattels, or effects so distrained may and shall be restored to the owner or possessor, if prior to the sale thereof payment or tender thereof shall be made to the proper officer charged with the collection of the full amount demanded, together with such fee for levying, and advertising, and such sum for the necessary and reasonable expenses of removing and keeping the goods, chattels, and effects so distrained, as may be allowed in like cases by the laws or practice of the State or Territory wherein the distraint shall have been made; but in case of non-payment or neglect to tender as aforesaid, the said officer shall proceed to sell the said goods, chattels, and effects at public auction, after due notice of the time and place of sale, and may retain from the proceeds of such sale the amount demandable for the use of the United States, with the said necessary and reasonable expenses of said distraint and sale, and a commission of five per centum thereon for his own use, rendering the overplus, if any there be, to the person whose goods, chattels, or effects shall have been distrained.

Sec. 56. And be it further enacted, That every person [illegible] shall, once in each month, upon the request of the assessor or assistant assessor [illegible] with an abstract of the entries upon his books, herein provided to be made, showing the amount of [illegible] beer, lager beer, ale, porter, or other fermented liquor [illegible] consumption or sale [illegible] shall be verified by the oath of the person making the same. And the said assessor or assistant assessor shall have the right to examine the books of such person for the purpose of obtaining the correct facts touching such entries. And for any neglect to furnish such abstract when requested, or refusal to furnish the same or to allow an examination of the books as aforesaid, the person so offending shall forfeit the sum of five hundred dollars.

LICENSES.

Sec. 57. And be it further enacted, That from and after the first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, no individual, partnership, firm, association, or corporation, shall be engaged in, prosecute, or carry on any trade, business, or profession hereinafter mentioned and described, until he or they shall have obtained a license therefor in the manner hereinafter provided.

Sec. 58. And be it further enacted, That every person, association of persons, partnership, or corporation, desiring to obtain a license to engage in any of the trades or occupations named in the sixty-fourth section of this act, shall register with the assistant assessor of the assessment district in which he shall design to carry on such trade or occupation—first, his or their name or style, and in case of an association or partnership, the names of the several persons constituting such association or partnership, and their places of residence; second, the trade or occupation for which a license is desired; third, the place where such trade or occupation is to be carried on; fourth, if a rectifier, the number of barrels he designs to rectify; if a peddler, whether he designs to travel on foot, or with one, two, or more horses; if an inn-keeper, the yearly rental of the house and property to be occupied for said purpose, or, if not rented, the assistant assessor shall value the same. All of which facts shall be returned duly certified by such assistant assessor, both to the assessor and collector of the district; and thereupon, upon payment to the collector or deputy collector of the district the amount as hereinafter provided, such collector or deputy collector shall make out and deliver a license for such trade or occupation, which license shall continue in force for one year, at the place or premises described therein.

Sec. 59. And be it further enacted, That if any person or persons shall exercise or carry on any trade or business hereinafter mentioned for the exercising or carrying on of which trade or business a license is required by this act, without taking out such license as is in that behalf required, he, she, or they shall, for every such offence, respectively, forfeit a penalty equal to three times the amount of the duty or sum of money imposed for such license, one moiety thereof to the use of the United States, the other moiety to the use of the person who, if a collector, shall first discover, and, if other than a collector, shall first give information of the fact whereby said forfeiture was incurred.

Sec. 60. And be it further enacted, That in every license to be taken out under or by authority of this act shall be contained and set forth the purpose, trade, or business for which such license is granted, and the true name and place of abode of the person or persons taking out the same, if by a rectifier, the quantity of spirits authorized to be rectified; if by a peddler, whether authorized to travel on foot, or with one, or two or more horses, the time for which such license is to run, and the true date or time of granting such license, and (except in the case of auctioneers and peddlers) the place at which the trade or business for which such license is granted shall be carried on: Provided, That all license granted under this act shall not authorize the person or persons, association or corporation mentioned therein to exercise or carry on the trade or business specified in such license in any other place than that mentioned therein, but nothing herein contained shall prohibit the storage of goods, wares, or merchandise in other places than the place of business.

Sec. 61. And be it further enacted, That in every case where more than one of the pursuits, employments, or occupations hereinafter described, shall be pursued or carried on in the same place by the same person at the same time, except as therein mentioned, license must be taken out for each according to the rates severally prescribed.

Sec. 62. And be it further enacted, That no auctioneer shall be authorized by virtue of his license as such auctioneer to sell any goods or other property at private sale; and if any such person shall sell any such goods or commodities, as aforesaid, otherwise than by auction, without having taken out such license as aforesaid for that purpose, he or she shall be subject and liable to the penalty in that behalf imposed upon persons dealing in, or retailing, trading, or selling any such goods or commodities without license, notwithstanding any license to him or her before granted, as aforesaid, for the purpose of exercising or carrying on the trade or business of an auctioneer, or selling any goods or chattels, lands, tenements, or hereditament by auction, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided, always, That where such goods or commodities as aforesaid are the property of any person or persons duly licensed to deal in or retail, or trade in, or sell the same, such person or persons having made lawful entry of his, her, or their house or premises, it shall and may be lawful for any person exercising or carrying on the trade or business of auctioneer, or selling any goods or chattels, lands, tenements, or hereditaments, by auction as aforesaid, being duly licensed for that purpose, to sell such goods or commodities as aforesaid, at auction, for and in behalf of such person or persons, and upon his, her, or their entered house or premises, without taking out a special license for such sale. The provisions of this section shall not apply to judicial or executive officers making auction sales by virtue of any judgment or decree of any court, nor to public sales, made by executors and administrators.

Sec. 63. And be it further enacted, That upon the death of any person or persons licensed under or by virtue of this act, or upon the removal of any such person or persons from the house or premises at which he, she, or they were authorized by such license to exercise or carry on the trade or business mentioned in such license, it shall and may be lawful for the person or persons authorized to grant licenses to authorize and empower, by indorsement on such license, or otherwise, as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall direct, the executors or administrators, or the wife or child of such deceased person, or the assignee or assigns of such person or persons so removing as aforesaid, who shall be possessed of and occupy the house or premises before used for such purposes as aforesaid, in like manner to exercise or carry on the same trade or business mentioned in such license, in or upon the same house or premises at which such person or persons as aforesaid licensed, or removing as before mentioned, by virtue of such license to him, her, or them, in that behalf granted, before exercised or carried on such trade or business for or during the residue of the term for which such license was originally granted, without taking out any fresh license or payment of any additional duty, or any fee thereupon for the residue of such term, and until expiration thereof: Provided, always, That a fresh entry of the premises at which such trade or business shall continue to be so exercised or carried on as aforesaid shall thereupon be made by and in the name or names of the person or persons to whom such authority as aforesaid shall be granted.

Sec. 64. And be it further enacted, That on and after the first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, for such license granted the sum herewith stated shall be respectively and annually paid. President Lincoln

The sincerity and patriotism of Mr Lincoln is not now questioned There is not a single act of his which can justly be imputed to a wrong principle He may err, but in all cases he aims to be right.

Recently he was called upon by a committee of a Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church. He was addressed by the Chairman, Rev Dr Douglas, on the position long held by that Church in regard to the question of slavery Mr. Lincoln replied

"As to the moral character of the institution of slavery, and as to its political bearing on the institutions of this or any other nation, he said there was between him and the Committee no difference of sentiment Had slavery no existence among us, and were the question asked Shall we adopt such an institution? we should agree as to the reply which should be made. If there be any diversity in our views it is not as to whether we should receive slavery when free from it, but as to how we may best get rid of it already amongst us. Were an individual asked whether he would wish to have a wen on his neck, he could not hesitate as to the reply, but were it asked whether a man who has such a wen should at once be relieved of it by the application of the surgeon's knife, there might be a diversity of opinion; perhaps the man might bleed to death, as the result of such an operation.—Feeling deeply my responsibility to my country, and to that God to whom we all owe allegiance, I assure you I will try to do my best, and so may God help me!"

Discovery of a good Harbor on the Coast of Palestine.

A good harbor on the coast of Palestine has been unknown to modern commercial nations. This fact long rendered that coast dangerous to ships, and it was approached with apprehension except in favorable seasons of the year. Recently a harbor has been found at a point from which a good road can be made to Jerusalem. The English Government have employed for several months an expedition to make a survey of the coast of Palestine. Dr. Barclay was the head of the expedition He had become impressed with the belief that a good harbor existed on the coast, near Jebnah Jamnia or Jabneel, (as the present Yebna was formerly called,) from the following statements found in the twelfth chapter of the second book of Maccabees In the relation that Judas Maccabees burnt the haven of Joppa or Jaffa, no ships are mentioned—only boats; but in describing the burning of Jamnia, it is stated that the light was seen even at Jerusalem, two hundred and forty furlongs off, and mention is made of a "navy" there. With this clue Dr Barclay diligently examined the vicinity of Jamnia But so much had the sands of the sea encroached upon this point, as indeed everywhere upon the coast of Palestine, that it was not until the third visit, and then only by the assistance of some fishermen, that he was enabled to find the harbor of which he was in search. Dr Barclay reports that his newly discovered harbor is ten miles below Jaffa—that it is of sufficient capacity for the accommodation of large ships—that it needs but little improvement to make it available that it is surrounded with the ruins of an ancient city—that the ascent from thence to the "city of the Great King" is "gradual, easy, and of grade suitable for railroad—that along the route are interminable ledges of stratified rocks of all sizes, regularly squared to the hand of the mason by the Great Architect of the Universe, for rebuilding the waste places of Israel in the shortest time." The discovery of this harbor at this day is regarded as one of the means through which Palestine, in process of time, may recover her ancient grandeur and glory

UNION MEETING AT SALEM —We learn that a large and interesting meeting was held at Salem on Saturday evening last, in which all of the Union members of the Legislature, State officers and many loyal citizens of that locality participated Hon A G Hovey, of Benton, was elected President, and Mr Gillott, of Clatsop, Secretary A State Central Committee was appointed consisting of one member from each Judicial District On motion of Mr Elisha Applegate, the meeting re adopted the resolutions adopted at the late Union Convention at Eugene City. The meeting was then addressed by Hon B F Harding, Hon. John R McBride, Gov Gibbs, Judge R P Boyce and Elisha Applegate the latter of whom congratulated the Union party of the State and particularly the Legislature "upon the excellent selection they had made of U. S. Senator, and endorsed Mr. Harding as the soundest Union man in the State of Oregon, &c, &c" The following resolution was then offered by Mr Phillip Wasserman which was read and unanimously adopted

"Resolved, That we endorse the Administration of Abraham Lincoln in all its acts, and express our entire confidence in the ability of the same to carry this war to a successful issue."

A motion was carried, requesting the proceedings to be published in all the Union papers of the State, which we will be pleased to do as soon as we receive a copy of the same

Governor Vance has called a council of the leading men of this State, for the purpose of taking President Lincoln's recent proclamation into consideration

St Louis, Oct 6 —Advices from General Schofield state that, with a powerful army, he was on Saturday at Sarcoxie, Jasper county, Southwest Missouri, sixteen miles from Newtonia, where the rebel forces, sixteen thousand strong, had collected. He expected to reach there to day, and if the rebels do not evacuate we may expect to hear immediately of a battle No apprehensions are entertained as to the result, Schofield's army being superior to that of the enemy, and in excellent fighting trim

Advices to the 4th from Greenville, Missouri, convey intelligence that the Texan troops, under McBride, had been ordered home forthwith, in consequence of rumored Federal victories at Marshall and Shreveport, Louisiana The troops thus referred to numbered two thousand

NEW YORK, October 7th —The Tribune's Washington special dispatch says The country is yet to hear of one resignation in the army in consequence of the President's emancipation proclamation.

AFFRAY —An affray occurred in Carson City, October 5th, between John D. Winters, late a candidate for Congress, and J. W. Pugh, formerly of Sacramento county, and a member of the Council in Nevada Territory, last winter The first assault was made by Winters and it is alleged he took offense on account of Pugh's exerting his influence in favor of Mott for Congress instead of Winters. The Silver Age says, Winters got Pugh down, and after he got up spit in his face

TIME UP —We learn that the Legislature adjourn sine die on Friday next, (day after to morrow,) as the forty days allowed by the Constitution, for which the members receive per diem, will expire on that day We think it quite probable, also, that a number of bills half finished will be left upon the table, without becoming laws, for want of time.

Eastern Items

We take the following from the editorial correspondence of the S F. Bulletin of Oct 6th, dated New York, Sept 10th

WHEN SHALL THE WAR END?—If our Government and military leaders henceforth act with unity energy and celerity we may now hope to see a speedy end of the war The enemy in very desperation has placed himself where we can strike him to the death if it can be done anywhere It is to be expected that Gen Halleck will see to it that the rebel host never get back to Virginia, except as a defeated broken and demoralized rabble, whose pursuit to utter destruction thenceforth will be the easiest of military tasks All depends upon good generalship—that is if Uncle Abe will for just once, at least, let the generals try what military skill can do We have two full months left for vigorous operations before the winter shall interpose but it looks to-day as though two weeks must tell us whether there is efficiency enough in our leaders to save the Union or whether the fabric of our fathers is to fall to pieces in our hands, never to be restored. If we beat the rebel army now, the hopes of the Southern Confederacy are at an end; if they beat us who can tell that an outraged indignant and loyal people will not rise upon our rulers themselves overturn the Government, and leave us to the choice of anarchy or a military dictatorship? For one, I have still faith in the good cause and a firm reliance under Providence in the stout hearts and strong arms of the brave army now moving to crush the invading traitors

GEN POPE'S CAMPAIGN IN VIRGINIA —Some friend of Gen Pope has published an evidently authorized though unofficial statement of his campaign and the policy which the writer claims was an entire success The purpose of the campaign, according to this exponent, was simply to attract the attention of the enemy while McClellan was withdrawing his army from the Peninsula, so that the latter might not be harrassed and perhaps destroyed in his retreat That undoubtedly was the purpose of Pope's original advance to the Rapidan and so far under the personal leadership of the gallant and accomplished Sigel during much of the time the movement was a grand success, but after that movement had been accomplished, and Pope had fallen back, drawing the enemy after him, a large portion of McClellan's command was detached from him, pushed forward to Pope, and temporarily attached to the command of the latter. It is idle to suppose that this was done simply to enable McClellan to get away from the Peninsula—for the great body of his army was already on the Potomac, and there was no longer occasion to cover the retreat in question. The fact is that Pope expected to ride rough shod over the rebel Jackson, by whom he was outgeneraled completely He expected to drive the rebel hosts before him, and to prove to all the world, that everybody else than Pope had sacrificed the cause to cowardice, super caution and inefficiency

Gen. Pope's official report will be found interesting, as giving his side of the case—On the other hand, it should not be forgotten that Pope's official dispatches have been constantly exaggerated in a style quite inconsistent with the character of a truthful man—The fact also that the President so promptly relieved him from command in Virginia, sending him to the far Northwest to fight Indians, is a significant indication that the Executive is not satisfied with his explanations of his recent defeat, and recognizes the absolute necessity of putting his pet somewhat out of harm's way. It is a grave question, however whether the President has any right thus to send Pope off to any new field of operations without an investigation as to his fitness for command He stands charged with having lost the recent battles through the grossest and most flagrant incompetency and misconduct Justice to the brave dead who fell in those battles, and to the cause of republican freedom which, for the moment, fell with them, imperatively demands that this charge should be investigated. If it be true, he should suffer the severest punishment due to the greatest of crimes If it is false, he should be relieved from the imputation But assigning him to a new command, without inquiry of any kind, is not only unjust, but a discreditable evasion of a solemn duty

NO REPORTS —We have not received any reports of the proceedings of the Legislature for several days past What has become of Reporter?

A late Washington letter says "the very earth trembles with armed men! The long columns that marched through the avenue yesterday had no end to their sheen of steel It glistened in the avenue at the Capitol gates in the morning, and in the turn by the President's house its bayonets were tipped with the departing light And I am told to-day that the column whose head reached here this morning has its rear in Philadelphia"

"Reliable Gentlemen" now estimate the rebel army at 400 000 soldiers.

Essay on O[illegible]

[illegible]

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

Next came the Hudson Bay Company and established themselves at various points on this coast, some of the [illegible] in Oregon.

Missionary stations were founded at a still later period under the auspices of the Methodist, and perhaps some other societies. But no real progress in civilization was made until very recently. As late as 1842 only twenty years ago Sir George Simpson on arriving at the Dalles Mission, wrote: "We were much pleased with the progress that had been made in three years. Two comfortable houses in which five families resided, had been erected a field of wheat had this year yielded about ten returns; and the gardens had produced an abundance of melons, potatoes, and other vegetables, while the dairy gave an adequate supply of milk and butter. The Missionaries said they were as happy in their new home as they could expect to be in such a wilderness." How wonderful a change the brief space of twenty years has produced, will be seen as we advance.

At that time a question existed between the United States and Great Britain relative to the boundary line separating the dominions of the two nations. The title to the territory of Oregon was in dispute, and the Hudson's Bay Company held their establishments here under a charter from the British Parliament.

About the same year rumors began to be circulated in the States bordering along the Mississippi, concerning the Willamette valley, which attracted the attention of those western pioneers, and emigration to this coast became a matter of general and serious contemplation, and much talked of throughout the western and northern central States. And in the spring of 1843, a considerable number of emigrants set out from the Missouri river, for Oregon, and arrived here late in the ensuing fall, or rather, in the early part of winter, to make their new homes in a clime where their national allegiance was unknown even to themselves. The succeeding year others followed, and settlements began to be established in various places in the country, depending for their supplies on the Hudson Bay Company's posts.

In 1846, the boundary question between the two governments, was settled in favor of the United States, and in 1848, a Territorial Government was organized, and donations of land subsequently made by the General Government, to citizens who should take them and become bona fide residents of the Territory. It will be necessary in another place to notice this donation law and its effects more particularly.

The privations and hardships undergone by the first settlers of this country, are manifest from its remoteness from any other civilized community. One or two illustrations are mentioned. There was no mail, and the Oregon Spectator, a bi weekly paper published at Oregon City, only reached its readers by a special messenger, sent out for that purpose, after each issue, to the different settlements in the Valley. Money was so scarce, that the provisional Legislature, in 1846, passed an act making 'government scrip, accepted orders on solvent merchants, and wheat, a legal tender for taxes, judgments, decrees, &c."

Oregon was admitted into the Union, in February, 1859, and in 1861 began to give additional promise of future prosperity, by the discovery of rich and extensive gold mines on its north eastern border and the contiguous districts of Washington Territory.

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY, &C.

All the country in North America, lying west of the Mississippi River, has a common axis of elevation, which is the great chain of the Rocky Mountains, and their southern continuation the Cordilleras of Mexico. The Sierra Nevada range with its northern extension, the Cascade Mountains of Oregon and Washington Territory constitutes a secondary axis which materially affects the entire country of the Pacific Coast, both in soil and climate. To the volcanic forces of these two great central lines of subterraneous commotion, is originally due the Physical Geography of Oregon.

It is generally known that the Rocky Mountain range is chiefly of igneous composition. Some portions of this range are of plutonic character, while some bear unmistakable evidences that their upheaval was prior to the process of consolidation. Sandstone abounds in many places in these mountains, and very considerable silurian deposits are also found. Gold bearing rocks occur in various localities. Where sedimentary rocks are found, they are frequently regular in their stratification, generally, indeed, distorted from their original position, but nevertheless retaining perfectly their stratified character. These rocks are usually interlaid with micaceous slate, and rest on masses of granite and gneiss. Mica is so abundant in some places that it may be found in extremely thin flakes in all the water of the mountain streams.

Of the same general character is the geological structure of the Cascade range, except that there is less of stratified rocks and stronger indications of recent volcanic action are observed. Basaltic and granitic rocks constitute the geological basis of the country. Slate and other argillaceous rocks, and a sort of irreducible limestone also characterize the western slope of the continent. Metamorphic features become more marked the nearer we approach the Pacific Coast, until, arriving at the Cascade range this characteristic is seen in its most clear and unmistakable aspects.

The paper is the same size as the Weekly Oregonian and its large circulation in all the mining regions above mentioned renders it to merchants and others, an excellent advertising medium.　aug1-3mdw
